

Curtain Rises On Satire 'Once In A Lifetime' At 8:30 Tonight

Tonight marks the premier of Kaufman-Hart's sparkling satire on Hollywood life, "Once in a Lifetime", as presented by the San Jose Players at 8:30 in the Little Theater.

It also marks the first time the top Broadway comedy team has had any of its work presented by the college Drama department, and this fast-moving, wise-cracking piece is one of the best the Kaufman-Hart combination has turned out.

START VOICE SCHOOL

three ex-vaudeville artists who go to Hollywood to start a voice school, and whose consequent adventures form the main thread of the plot.

Rapid-fire quips by Kaufman and three-ring-circus stage action by Hart should make this satire a drama with the widest appeal of any presented by the San Jose Players, according to Hugh Gillis, Speech department head.

Kaufman's humor is evident in the three top contemporary comedies, "You Can't Take It With You", "Dulcy", and "Once in a Lifetime".

The production presents a cast of 42 students, which is one of the largest in the history of San Jose State college dramatics.

CHARACTERS TYPED

Characterizations include such movie types as innocent country girls with screen ambitions, an eccentric producer, temperamental directors, publicity men, fluttery feminine columnists, and a bewildered playwright who spends his time vainly trying to get an audience with the producer.

Some of the other members of the cast whose parts offer excellent opportunity for definite characterization are Helen Hobart, the columnist, as played by Nina Wilder, and Ernest, the dramatic waiter, presented by Clarence Cassell.

Patricia Ironsides portrays the role of Miss Leighton, receptionist in the producer's office, and Roberta Long is the country actress, Susan Walker.

TICKETS STILL ON SALE

Tickets for tonight, and Friday and Saturday may be purchased in the Speech office. Student prices are 25 cents and general admission 50 cents.

Student's Original Composition Featured On Choir Program Tomorrow Night At 8 O'clock

An original composition, "Im-promptu", by Orrin Blattner, member of the San Jose State college Brass Choir, will be one of the featured numbers on the program which the twenty-piece choir will present tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Grace Baptist Church.

Directed by Maurice Faulkner, music faculty member, the choir will play a varied program of music composed for brasses. Tomorrow night's program will be the second in which the organization has presented an original composition of one of its own members. "Rhapsody in Brass", by Charles Pyle, was one of the hit numbers on the repertoire last year.

First tour of the year by the Brass Choir will begin February 16 when the group leaves San Jose to play a series of concerts in the northern part of the state.

Lights On Club Plane To Help In Night Flying

To facilitate night flying, members of the State Flying club elected yesterday to construct lights on their "cub" plane, according to Miss Doris Shields, secretary of the San Jose Airport. "Although this is a convenient addition to the plane, students will not be able to fly when pitch dark," Miss Shields said, "but only on moonlight nights."

Due to the reorganization of the University of California Flying club, the three-way dual meet scheduled for Sunday with the State Flying club and the Twenty Flying club has been cancelled, the airport secretary said.

Fees Must Be Paid Before February 9, Brakebill Announces

Special attention to the deadline of course fees is asked by Harry Brakebill of the Business office for students who contemplate putting off their payment until the last minute.

"Fees are now acceptable and will be until Friday, February 9," Brakebill stated yesterday. Following that date, there will be a late charge of $1, and if fees are not paid by February 16, registration will be subject to cancellation.

Variety Program Given Today By Radio Class

"Washington Square Revue", a presentation of the Radio Writing class, commences at 11 o'clock today in the Little Theater. The one-hour variety program is presented in the form of a radio broadcast with the script written by Helen Smith.

Featured on the program will be impersonations by Miss Smith of Mae West, Step-n-Fetch-It, the Dead End Kids, and others. For the classically inclined, Ellen Jane Hutchins will play DeBussy's "Raindrop Prelude", and for the modern, Jack Harcourt will give his own arrangement of "The Man I Love" and other popular pieces. The "Jack and the Three Jills", composed of Harcourt, E. J. Hutchins, Ruth Froehlich, and Helen Smith, will harmonize Hawaiian melodies. Program is open to all.

Conquerors Of Broncs Dethroned In Close Game; Allen Stands Out

By FRANK BONANNO

Coach Bill Hubbard's Spartan basketball quintet was hotter than a firecracker last night in Spartan Pavilion, and when the smoke of battle finally cleared, the mighty Dons from the University of San Francisco found themselves on the short end of a 35 to 29 score.

The USF quintet opened the game looking like the champions that knocked over the Santa Clara Broncos last week with Fair and Burman doing most of the damage. Big Dick Urhammer finally put the Spartans in the scoring column after four minutes of game time had elapsed. Kotta and Urhammer came back in quick succession to put San Jose out in front, 6-4. From here on the Hubbards were out in front the rest of the night. Score at half-time favored the Spartans, 25 to 12.

Again the shooting of Kotta and the defensive play of Urhammer and Allen kept the Dons running around in circles throughout most of the first half. Kotta sank four field goals. Urhammer three, and Allen three from far out.

BURMAN CHECKED

Using a zone defense for the entire game, the Spartans bottled up the sharpshooting tactics of 6'4" Burman at center.

Hubbard, satisfied with his 13-point lead, was contented to play the game safe and allow the Dons to take the aggressive.

Fair, playing at one forward for Coach Wally Cameron's Dons, staged a one-man rally which just fell short of nipping the Spartans.

FOULS COSTLY

San Jose lost the services of Urhammer at center, and Tornell at guard by way of the foul rules, and Hubbard was forced to rely on his second stringers for most of the second half. Figone, Bachman, and Ford came through like veterans in the pinch.

Women Winners Of Roos Ad Contest Named

Stella Castleberry, junior commerce major, placed first in the women's division in the second week's competition of the Ad-Writing contest sponsored by Roos Bros., according to Carlton Pederson, commerce instructor, and one of the judges.

The winning ad may be seen on page two of today's paper. Placing second and third, respectively, were Leone Petersen, senior Art major, and Shirley Rawlins, freshman Home Economics major. Winning layout in the men's division will be announced Friday.

At the end of the eight-week contest, winners will compete for the final awards, which are $20 in merchandise, first prize; and $10 in merchandise, second prize; for both the men's and women's divisions.

Students may submit as many ads as they wish, although a weekly winner will not be able to compete for further weekly recognition, stated Pederson.

SPARTA GIVES $22.95 IN 'DIMES' DRIVE

A total of $22.95 was contributed by students Tuesday during the "March of Dimes" campaign on the campus, according to reports from the Controller's office.

The drive was conducted by the two campus service organizations, Spartan Spears and Spartan Knights. Members of the two groups were on duty from 8 to 5 o'clock selling "March of Dimes" buttons in an effort to raise funds to help infantile paralysis victims.

TRYOUTS FOR 'KIND LADY' IN LITTLE THEATER TODAY AT FOUR O'CLOCK

"Kind Lady" tryouts will take place today in the Little Theater at 4 o'clock, and anyone interested in dramatics is urged to come, announces Miss Margaret Douglas, Speech department member and director.

The drama is a play of atmosphere and has a wide variety of characters. The main action concerns a woman who is held prisoner in her own home, and many will remember May Robson's sterling performance as that woman on the San Francisco stage several years ago.

Hugh Walpole, eminent British author, wrote the book which was adapted to play form by Edward Chodorov. It is available in the reserve library for students interested.

"Kind Lady" ran on Broadway for several seasons, and Grace George played the leading role, supported by Henry Daniel, as the suave villain, the same part that was handled in the movie version by Basil Rathbone.

Something Tangible Needed . . .

Much has been accomplished to date on the improvement of San Jose State college housing conditions, especially through the housing survey which has brought to students, faculty, and, to some extent, townspeople, a clearer picture of conditions as they actually exist.

However, said accomplishments to date have been purely of an intangible nature. The housing report should stimulate interested groups to take steps which would bring a tangible improvement. As it stands now, the housing report is an excellent document which students and faculty may study with interest, but which they have as yet done nothing about.

The report suggests the way towards making needed improvements. The report calls the great majority of houses "fire traps" and many "unfit for decent living". The survey was impartial and there is little reason to doubt the authenticity of the statements made, and if such conditions exist, certainly they are worth doing something about.

Boxers Battle For 'Fighting Finns' . . .

Eighteen San Jose State college boxers will be fighting tonight in ten bouts at the annual All-College Boxing Tournament for the relief of the "Fighting Finns".

Their efforts will be in vain unless a large percentage of the students on Washington Square get behind the cause and attend the matches in Spartan Pavilion. Unlike many attempts to raise money for causes, worthy or unworthy as the case might be, there is no begging for contributions with nothing given in return but a sense of personal satisfaction. For the small admission charge of twenty cents you will see ten action-packed bouts, each one worth more than the admission charge in thrills and excitement.

If you don't like boxing, come and learn to like it. You still feel hesitant about lending your support to the cause of the gallant Finns? Remember that your contribution is going to relieve the distress of a nation's people who have always played square with us. While larger and wealthier nations for whom we Americans seem to feel a natural sympathy have welched on their pledged word and debts, the Finns have always kept their slate clean.

We are not taking sides by contributing to the Finnish Relief Fund. We are only helping defenseless women and children and non-combatants who are bearing a far greater burden of misery from the war than any soldier in the front line rifle pits. The next time you hear a CAA training plane drone overhead, remember that such a sound presages a rain of bombs in Finland.

Any sum that we can send to the aid of these helpless non-combatants, many of them homeless and destitute in an arctic climate, will only be paying part of that debt that each individual, whether he admits it or not, owes to the cause of humanity.

—Regan.

Just Among Ourselves

By DR. T. W. MacQUARRIE

It's interesting, isn't it, about that Pacific Coast Conference, the so-called "big fellows"? They've gone moral or something like that all of a sudden, and have hired for $20,000 a year a professional sleuth to see that they live up to their principles. Devoted to higher education and all that, you know, leaders of the youth of our land, exponents of good citizenship, the last citadel of amateurism in the world of sport, and they can't trust each other, or their own staffs. They must employ a professional detective with a host of operatives before they are willing to meet each other in an athletic sport. No one believes they are going to live up to their own rules. They don't believe it themselves. They can't live up to them and get the money.

That Pacific Coast Conference, judging largely from our relations with it, has a way of making rules that are not given out to the general public. To take at its face value the little book they print, one might think it was a rather high-class organization. If one were to get a squint into the list of agreements made in executive sessions, and never given to the public, one might get an entirely different opinion.

Evidently they have a rule which says: "We don't play with teams that do not live up to the rules of the Pacific Coast Conference, whether they belong or not. We must not subject our boys to unethical contacts." That doesn't make sense to us. If they would come out and say candidly, "No, we can't make any money out of you fellows," well and good, we could understand that, but they must be forever kidding themselves.

The big fellows are simply trying to guarantee to themselves the advantage of their size. If you limit your players to those students only who come to the institution of their own accord, if you do no proselyting whatever, exert no influence to bring players to the school, then statistically the biggest school will have the best team. From a thousand men you can get eleven players of a certain sort, from two thousand you can get eleven better players, and from five hundred you get eleven who will not be so good. Barring the accidents of the game, the slight difference in coaches, and you can always get another coach, the team from the largest school will win out most of the time, the big bully.

Still, no one expects those Conference Schools to live up to their rules. There are headaches in every one of them right now, trying to work out methods of getting away with it. They will be afraid of the G-man for a time, but the rules under which they all work will be capable of liberal interpretation and the show will go on. It's just another case of the honor system in college examinations; again the biggest liar wins.

When that lovable rodent, Mickey the Mouse, says "Hello there" to gal friend Minnie in the midst of animated cartoon antics, it takes only one second to say, but 24 single drawings by the animators for the lip actions to form the words.

WE MAKE THE MOVIES, edited by Nancy Naumberg, reveals this inside fact about the world of Disney drawings, as well as giving intimate glimpses into the various other studio departments which go to make up the world of Hollywood make-believe.

Presenting the technical side of movies in simple, easy-to-read style, this book contains chapters written by outstanding figures in the motion picture world, including Jesse L. Lasky, Bette Davis, Paul Muni, and Walt Disney.

A glossary of studio terms shows that a gaffer is a chief electrician and a dolly a four-wheel camera platform to facilitate the camera's motion about the set. Biographical notes on Bette Davis, Muni, Disney, and other persons mentioned in the book complete a well-planned, highly interesting behind-the-scenes volume.

THRUST and PARRY

CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

Dear Thrust and Parry:

At the present time most teachers give their homework assignments one day at a time; thus some nights when we have several classes during the day, we have a great deal of home work, while other nights we have a comparatively small amount. My remedy for this situation is this: teachers should give homework assignments two or three days, or if possible a week, in advance. This would be especially helpful for those who are taking two or more daily courses.

Let me cite an example: Some of us had class all day yesterday with only time off for lunch. Last night we were faced with a basketball game and also homework for two daily classes this morning. Either we went to the basketball game, and as a result will be unprepared for our daily classes today; or else we denied ourselves the enjoyment of the basketball game in order to do the required homework.

By knowing definitely what our assignments are to be a few days ahead of the day they are due, we will be able to budget our time so that we can come fully prepared to each class and still be able to enjoy a few of the games that come during the middle of the week. If you think that this is a good idea, let's hear what you have to say about the matter!

ALL-COLLEGE FIGHTS TONIGHT

Spartan Daily Sports

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1940

KEEP YOUR EYES ON THESE 3 MEN TONIGHT

PETE BOLICH, the "Mauler" from Mayfield, will be seen in action tonight in the 175-pound division. Pete faces another slugger in Bill Amann, in what should be the battle of the evening. Defeated Wisconsin's National Champion, Torgenson, last year.

CAPTAIN BILL BOLICH, older brother of Pete, a tough and rugged individual with a boring style. Bill was undefeated in dual competition last year. Fought draw with Wisconsin's champ in the 155-pound class. Fights at 145 tonight.

JIM KINCAID, ex-captain and one of the five boxers on the recent tour of Japan. Kincaid will be fighting at 165 pounds tonight. Probably the best boxer on the squad, Jim will face a slugger in Charlie Stone.

FINNISH RELIEF BENEFITS FROM SPARTAN BOUTS

Ten Matches; Show Starts At 8:00

The annual All-College boxing tournament tonight in Spartan Pavilion gives local fight fans their first glimpse of Coach DeWitt Portal's varsity leather pushers in a Finnish relief benefit show. An innovation in the tournament will be the "honor" system, to prevail with the referee officiating from outside the ring.

First test of the new system at San Jose was given by Portal to the varsity at the workout in the gym last night. Clinches were broken at the sound of a referee's whistle, and the boxers reacted well to the new conditions.

Ten fights are slated for tonight, with entrants cut to two in each division except the 135-pound class where there are four. Don Taylor, Gus Covello, Tony Nasimento, and Bill Everding are the lightweights entered. There will be two early bouts in this division, with the winners meeting in the finals.

KINCAID AT 165

Jim Kincaid, 1939 Pacific Coast Intercollegiate champion at 145 pounds, has moved up to the 165 pound class. Tonight's match with Charlie Stone will be his first at the new weight.

Another shake-up in the weights finds Gene Fisk, who fought at 165 against Wisconsin last year, down to 155. Fisk will meet Bill Moulden, flashy colored boxer.

BOUTS START EARLY

Matches start at 8 o'clock and an admission of 20 cents will be charged with student body cards. General admission is 50 cents. Proceeds go to the Finnish relief fund.

Spartan Quintet Entered In PAA Aquatic Classic

Five men have been entered in the annual P.A.A. Fairmont Plunge fifty-yard championships to be held Friday night, announced Swimming Mentor Charlie Walker yesterday.

Captain Bill Johnston will be the lone Spartan entry in the senior division with Freshman Gene Shirakoff carrying the San Jose colors in the junior championships.

Owen Collins, Joe Weitzenburg, and Del Armstrong are entered in the novice class.

This meet usually rates the best sprinters on the coast and all of the big names in swimming of the area try for prestige that winners of the first big meet of the year gain from this divisional A.A.U. event.

The novice class usually has no favorites, with all entries usually dark horses and sometimes producing better times than the two higher categories.

Spartans-Dons

San Jose attempted to freeze the ball, and the Dons were treated to a perfect exhibition of ball handling before Fair could break up the game. Three field goals in quick succession by Fair put the Dons ahead 6 points, but the gun saved the badly tiring Spartans from a lopsided defeat.

TOP SCORER

Fair of the Dons took scoring honors for the night with 16 digits. After making 8 points in the first half, failed to hit the hoop for one point during the second half, and tied for scoring honors for the Spartans with Tomell. Urhammer made 7 points while in the game.

There will be a meeting at 4 p.m. of the WAA in the Women's gym.

BULLETIN

San Jose State college frosh basketballers thumped Monterey high school, 44-25, in the Spartan gym last night. Coach Frank Carroll used second and third stringers in the first period and his men held a 19-11 advantage at half time.

With the first string playing the second half, the Spartlets increased the margin against the high schoolers. Kaleb Borg of San Jose held high point honors with 8 markers, followed by Teammates Gareth Adams and Pete Bruni with 6 each. Marchant was Monterey's top scorer with 6.

The frosh team plays a preliminary to the San Jose State Varsity-Chico game against Watsonville Falcons here tomorrow night at 6:45. Carroll's men face Modesto junior college at Modesto Saturday night.

WORTHY CAUSE . . .

SAN JOSE STATE WILL make its contribution to the nation-wide FINNISH RELIEF BENEFIT TONIGHT in the Spartan Pavilion, when the cream of boxing talent meets in the annual All-College fistic extravaganza, under the direction of Coach Dee Portal.

A small admission fee of 20 cents will be charged to State students, but a cause such as this and the show lined up by Portal should be sufficient to get every one there. This will be San Jose's donation toward aiding the Finns. Support your team by attending the fights tonight and also contribute your bit toward a worthy cause.

NO REFEREE?????

A novelty will be in store for fight fans tonight when Coach DeWitt Portal introduces his new idea of eliminating the referee from the squared circle in all amateur bouts. If this pet theory of Portal's proves successful tonight, it may revolutionize the entertainment.

L. C. Newby Plays Role In 'Topaze'

By FLORENCE SCUDERO

L. C. Newby, head of the Language department, realistically portrays the role of the heavy-set Castel-Benac, a corrupt city councilman in Marcel Pagnol's "Topaze". French play to be presented by Iota Delta Phi in the Little Theater February 15 and 16, according to Dr. Boris Lubowski, director.

Mr. Newby may be remembered for his characterization of Pyramus and Thisbe. The language head also played in "Tovarich", which was presented by the French honor society two years ago.

"Topaze" is a popular play among theater-goers, Dr. Lubowski said, having played in France for two years. Lionel Barrymore took the leading role of "Topaze" in the film version a few years ago.

Barney Murphy and Barbara Jean Wallace have the leading roles in the play, with other members of Iota Delta Phi and members of the first-year French classes taking small parts in the production.

Portal, who is always thinking up ways and means that will better amateur boxing, believes that the elimination of the referee will make for better audience interest in the fight game, and may teach the fighters to use skill more than that killer instinct when they enter a ring.

Dee's enthusiasm on the possibilities of his pet theory is genuine and sincere. He believes that it will aid amateur boxing and create more interest in the fight game from people who at present know little or nothing about it.

No doubt many will come to the defense of Portal, but a larger percent will resent this radical change in the established rules of fighting. Anyway, a test will be made in the All-College bouts tonight and the result will be an interesting one. Good luck, Dee.
